Voting Rights of Migrant Workers
The lack of a coherent migration policy and limitations on work-related freedoms of internal migrant workers put them at a disadvantage by excluding them from the voting process.  page 12

A Weakened Lokpal
The dilution of the law on Lokpal threatens its independence and renders it ineffective in performing the functions it was envisioned for, diminishing public trust in the institution.  page 14

Whose Waste Is It Anyway?
The solution to the informal sector’s substantial contribution to the failure of the extended producer responsibility mechanism lies in integrating informal recycling with formal recycling.  page 34

Alienation through Criminalisation
The police’s harassment of Bengali Muslims in Jaipur after the 2008 bomb blasts has led to their criminalisation in an unfair manner, resulting in the loss of citizenship and denial of rights for many.  page 49

Caste sans Politics?
Indian sociologists’ failure to come to terms with caste in its totality is due to their wilful neglect of B R Ambedkar’s ideas, producing a depoliticised understanding of caste.  page 27
